

Call for Nominations/Applications:
Communication and Critical/Cultural Studies Editor-Elect
Assuming duties in 2024; overseeing 2025-2027 volumes

During 2023, NCA's Publications Council will nominate an Editor-Elect (or co-Editors-Elect) for Communication and Critical/Cultural Studies. The newly appointed Editor will begin processing manuscripts early in 2024 and will oversee the volumes for 2025-2027. The journal is published four times each year.

Editors of NCA journals occupy a particularly prominent leadership position in the field. In naming editorial boards, selecting reviewers for manuscripts, and making final publication decisions (among other duties), they make a vitally important contribution to the discipline, and they play a key role in maintaining the highest standards of integrity and scholarly inquiry.

Communication and Critical/Cultural Studies (CC/CS) is a peer-reviewed publication of the National Communication Association. CC/CS publishes original scholarship that situates culture as a site of struggle and communication as an enactment and discipline of power. The journal features critical inquiry that cuts across academic and theoretical boundaries. CC/CS welcomes a variety of methods including textual, discourse, and rhetorical analyses alongside auto/ethnographic, narrative, and poetic inquiry.

The journal especially invites essays that are intellectually innovative, reflexive, and relevant to democratic concerns in their examination of culture and communication. CC/CS promotes critical reflection on democratic ideals by drawing attention to areas such as:

- Historical, material, and economic conditions
- Nation, polity, and private and/or public sphere
- Identities (e.g., class, race, ethnicity, gender, ability, sexuality, etc.) and Identity Politics
- Neo-colonial, Post-Colonial, and Globalization Contexts
- Technology and New Media
- Resistance and Protest

In addition to research essays, CC/CS publishes occasional reviews of major new books.

Robin Boylorn, University of Alabama, is the current Editor.
