

Call for Nominations/Applications:
Review of Communication Editor-Elect
Assuming duties in 2025; overseeing 2026-2028 volumes

During 2024, NCA's Publications Council will nominate an Editor-Elect (or co-Editors-Elect) for Review of Communication. The newly appointed Editor will begin processing manuscripts early in 2025 and will oversee the volumes for 2026-2028. The journal is published four times each year as an online-only publication.

Editors of NCA journals occupy a particularly prominent leadership position in the field. In naming editorial boards, selecting reviewers for manuscripts, and making final publication decisions (among other duties), they make a vitally important contribution to the discipline, and they play a key role in maintaining the highest standards of integrity and scholarly inquiry.

Position statement on the teaching, scholarly/creative activity, and service value of editing an NCA journal.

The Review of Communication is a peer-reviewed publication of the National Communication Association. The Review of Communication publishes original scholarship that advances the discipline and practice of communication through the study of major themes that cross disciplinary subfields. Following the intellectually and academically cosmopolitan tradition of the journal, we invite substantive essays that not only review controversies and trajectories in communication scholarship, but also contribute to the major issues that span our discipline. Such macro-interpretive studies may be historical, theoretical, philosophical, qualitative, quantitative, rhetorical, or syncretic. The Review of Communication welcomes essays that build theory, advance our understanding of a method, extend or challenge a current paradigm, bridge a divide, clarify a term or concept, or demonstrate a pragmatic function.

Stephen Croucher, Massey University, is the current Editor.
