

National Communication Association

October 16, 2013

Dear Sharon Morrissey,

The National Communication Association advances communication as the discipline that studies all forms, modes, media and consequences of communication through humanistic, social scientific and aesthetic inquiry. The NCA serves the scholars, teachers, and practitioners who are its members by enabling and supporting their professional interests in research and teaching. Dedicated to fostering and promoting free and ethical communication, the NCA promotes the widespread appreciation of the importance of communication in public and private life, the application of competent communication to improve the quality of human life and relationships, and the use of knowledge about communication to solve human problems.

As the largest learned society dedicated to this mission, we strongly support the arguments articulated by the Carolinas Communication Association in its recent memo to Sharon Morrissey and urge you to reconsider inclusion of Communication courses in the revised Curriculum Articulation Agreement on General Education Courses.

Sincerely,

Steven A. Beebe, Ph.D.
President, National Communication Association
Regents' and University Distinguished Professor and Chair,
Department of Communication Studies, Texas State University

1765 N Street NW
Washington DC 20036
tel 202 464 4622
fax 202 464 4600
inbox@natcom.org
www.natcom.org